

Spazio Krizia
MILAN, 2013

At Spazio Krizia, we presented two models of the project for Inhotim, the art park in Brazil, Flying Flames Chandelier in front of a reproduction of the Last Supper, as well as other novelties and experimental lighting objects.

"For many years, Spazio Krizia has been a fantastic platform to showcase my ideas for objects, One-Offs, and installations. It has also become my base camp in Milano during the Salone, a space where I have had the chance to meet many interesting, lovely people, last not least the brilliant, generous Mariuccia Mandelli, an outstanding character. Thank you, Signora, for this unique opportunity!" (Ingo Maurer)
